NTCC HONORS also drew even again with several liberal arts colleges such as Ramapo of New Jersey and Chapman University of California. Each year these schools have 3-6 candidates accepted at the NCHC. Because of Noah Gri work on Bedouins and Cowboys, Alisha s perspective on Lady B. Johnson, and Matthew had the visibility of a regional leader. We are most noted for our scholarly research and film work. For the latter, we thank Dr. Chuck Hamilton (right with actors)

Remarkable Fall Trip

Our Fall Trip to Dallas, thanks to Dr. Jim and Paula Archer, provided the most engaging mosaic of culture yet. On 13 September, we visited the Dallas Museum of Art, the Pyramid Restaurant, the Arboretum, and the Granville Theatre for a dramatic production by Agatha Christie.

PS Kayleah Cumpian, counted ATP molecules and wrote a winsome essay on Wright Patman for the Biotex Honors Seminar. In Humusic, PS Noah Griffin brought his native musical skills into a look at the meaning of rhythm. Other top seminar performers were Zachary Davis, Miranda Mendoza, Stephen Milburn, and Alisha Richardson.

Teamwork=power. Google Great Plains Honors Council and see a culmination of your support. Of six slots of its Executive Council there are Matthew Jordan, me, and a charter member of our Honors Committee, Carrie Pritchett. W work with three university professors from UT-Arlington, U. Arkansas, and Park University.

The GPHC is good for us. The once exclusive A&M Commerce Honors College is opening their free-ride scholarships to our transfers. Texas Texas and UT Dallas Honors are welcoming. Meanwhile, the Elkins Foundation is upgrading the Webb Society, source of Texas Caldwell Awards Theta Kappa is enjoying a golden age. Dr.

Weinbrenner and Dr. Hearron are a formidable team, writing for student awards. Starting this year, the Terry Foundation has $12k scholarships for top transfers, which we expect our sophomore Presidential Scholars to win. Since we started in 2007 - $trends are slanting upward.
